A New Perspective

17-21 August 1959

1. The significant event of the week is the return of [ ] from overseas to duty with OSI. He has been assigned to work full time not only on this but on subsequent ELINT courses.

4. I spent Wednesday afternoon with him. We went over the proposed schedule of subjects carefully and then discussed in detail the five lectures to be delivered by OSI members. I delegated to him the task of getting these lectures in shape during the next two weeks. He is also exploring the methods by which we can get money for the Cape Canaveral trip out of ELINT funds. I introduced him to [ ] and then to [ ] he is already acquainted with Mr. [ ] The introduction to [ ] brought out another fact: [ ] is exceedingly welcome in any office of DDP dealing with ELINT because he is bringing accurate knowledge back from the active front.

5. Through [ ] we are quietly polling the area divisions of DDP to see whether we can collect enough students with an S.I. clearance. The results thus far have not been too promising and [ ] is no longer entirely firm in his demand. I am holding the bulletin announcing the course until the results of the poll are in. [ ] and I can, I think, put the document into final form before I leave.

6. I have completed synopses of the lectures of the second week, had them dittoed, and will leave them with [ ]. The synopses are both factual and provocative, a tentative draft. I have woven together what was said in these lectures and what I think should be said. In any case, the synopses disclose areas of overlap and stake out definite limitations on the various speeches. The three speeches on requirements I have treated somewhat differently since there was definite confusion over what should be said.

7. The collection of case histories is not progressing. Here again, however, [ ] promises to be of help since he has at his finger tips a variety of experiences from Western Europe and can summarize them for the student by judicious omissions.

NOTE: These three lectures on requirement, I have set up informally and in outline. They represent only partially what the speakers said but indicate what they probably should say.
